Paper Grab Could Be Political One

Our Duty to War Dead

Keystones of American policy should be to make sure that while we're fighting for freedom abroad we don't lose freedom at home. The people seem to understand this better than our leaders do.

Official Washington has an unhappy habit of twisting a popular slogan around to fit every political need, as witness the current plan to grab 5 per cent of all newspaper production and allocate it to Europe and Asia "to combat communism."

We don't often agree with the editorial views of the Chicago Tribune, but the Tribune sized up the situation accurately when it said last week:

"This could be the beginning of an intolerable system of controlling newsprint use in North America. To take it away from American and Canadian newspapers and supply it to primitive countries where the press is not free is to punish the press where it is free and reward governments which do not believe in freedom of the press."

Americans not connected with the publishing business will understand what the Tribune is talking about as it controlled newsprint for it was his hold on newsprint supplies that enabled Dictator Juan Peron to crush the free press of Argentina last winter—giving paper to his journalistic slaves but denying it to La Prensa and other courageous dailies which printed the truth.

But the Tribune is talking about something even deeper than that. Most of the foreign papers to whom this newsprint gift would be made by our government are not free and independent papers at all, and have little effect on the democratic program as we understand it in our country.

The American press, backed by advertising from our mass production industry and merchandising, stands on its own feet, pays its own bills, prints the news factually, and writes its own editorial views. But over most of the world, Great Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand excepted, newspapers are subsidized sheets published by some politician, rich man, or pressure group. At one time there were approximately 70 newspapers in Paris, for example, but only a couple of them were recognizable as such.

Therefore we aren't taking newsprint away from this country to give it to foreign newspapers as such—we are merely pouring it into the lap of the political hacks and their financial supporters who currently control the police of the countries we are dealing with.

I agree with the Chicago Tribune that it is a dangerous business indeed to weaken the position of our own press for such a purpose.

When they brought home the body of Private Charles L. Singleton, McNab casually of the Korean war, on Saturday, August 4, there was only a handful of persons at the station to meet the train.

We had short notice, it is true—the news announcement reached the Star only in time for the edition that afternoon, and the memorial service was to be held Sunday August 5. But our war dead deserve better public recognition than this.

I suggest that the Legion and VFW take up with the armed services the matter of getting more advance notice about the return of our war dead, so that the home community can give them proper honor. Any war that claims the lives of American boys is a big war to the section they come from.

Sister Kenny Has Incurable Disease

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 13 (AP)—Sister Elizabeth Kenny, a leader in the fight against polio, told a Sydney sun reporter today she is incurably ill and has little time left in this world.

The world famous nurse did not name the disease with which she has been stricken, but the reporter said she was shaking and looked ill.

Miss Kenny, who is 65, said she would continue her fight against the ravages of polio "until I die." She will leave Thursday for the United States en route to an international polio myelitis conference in Copenhagen, Denmark. She will be under a nurse's care on the trip.

"I am unwell and incurably so," she said. "I only hope I will be spared the time to come home again. I am very happy in my beautiful Totwimba home among my own relatives and the people among whom I made my discoveries on poliomyelitis. I want to end my days at home."

Her journey to the United States is caused by the fact that the American congress, in a special bill, granted her the "freedom of the United States." She is the second person in history to gain this distinction which allows her to travel back and forth without passport or immigration formalities. The first was Gen. Lafayette who won the right for his services in helping the American colonists gain their independence from England in the 18th century.

"I have an abiding and deep love for America and the Americans," Miss Kenny said, and it has been through American friends that I was able to return to Australia and now go to the Copenhagen conference."

Miss Kenny lived in the United States from 1940 until February of this year when she returned to her old home in Toowoomba, Queensland.

The noted nurse will present a manuscript on her controversial concept of treatment of polio to the American Medical association while in the United States.

Miss Kenny's theories and treatment of polio threw U. S. medical circles into an uproar when first introduced. A survey earlier this year showed that most doctors, by 1951, gave her credit for a "virtual revolution" in the treatment of polio, but still disagreed with her concept of the disease.

The Australian sister (An Australian army medical title) teaches that polio can strike any muscle or organ of the body. Most doctors think it is confined to the central nervous system.

Despite this difference, the Associated Press survey showed, most doctors said she had spurred to medical profession into much greater use of methods designed to prevent crippling of polio victims.

"I bear no grudge against the doctors who know nothing of my discoveries," she said today. "I have fought for 40 years to make my discoveries known and I will fight on until I die."

Senate May Trim New Tax Measure

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—The senate finance committee today begins closed door consideration of the new tax bill, a version of the group predict it will trim down the 7,200,000,000 tax boost approved by the house.

The bill is on the "must" list compiled by the Democratic leadership for action before congress quits this year.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the committee told newsmen he expects the 13 senators to finish writing their version within two weeks — by Aug. 24 or 25.

It will take another week for the committee staff and treasury to write a report on the measure, he said. George predicted the bill will reach the senate floor shortly after labor day.

There appeared to be little or no sentiment for increasing the tax hike to the 10,000,000,000 asked by President Truman. Estimates by committee members on the amount the group would approve ranged from 5,000,000,000 up to the amount set by the house.

One Republican member, who asked not to be identified by name, told newsmen he was sure the group would throw out the house's method of raising individual income taxes.

The house proposes to get about 7,250,000,000 in additional revenue by adding 1-2 per cent to the tax bill each person pay now.

This would concentrate much of the increase in the middle and higher income brackets.

The G. O. P. senator predicted the committee would go for the treasury plan which is to add the same number of percentage points to each tax bracket.

Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder told the senators this would have greater impact on the lower brackets, one lawmakers favor this as an anti-inflationary measure on the ground the bulk of the spending is in these brackets.

However, said in a statement sent to the committee that the house plan for raising personal income taxes was "perhaps the most equitable feature of the entire bill."

It calls for the rich to make a real contribution to the defense effort," he said, but cannot be paid confiscatory since a person with 100,000 income would have 941,600 left over under the house bill.

Army Starts Maneuvers at Ft. Bragg

Fort Bragg, N. C., Aug. 13 (AP)—Exercise Southern Pine war games opened today with a mythical enemy aggressor trying to crash through a defending U. S. force and capture the Raleigh-Durham industrial area. The two-week maneuver involving about 110,000 troops and airmen is America's biggest field training test since World War II.

Many of the ground troops will leave for Germany this fall to join Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Atlantic pact army.

The mock war is being fought in the pine-covered sandhills surrounding Fort Bragg in south central North Carolina near Fayetteville. Troops and planes of a make-believe enemy have pulled a sneak invasion of the South Carolina coast and are moving up toward Fort Bragg. They have aimed an armored spearhead at Raleigh-Durham about 80 miles north of the fort. The maneuver is designed to set up realistic battlefield situations for defending U. S. forces.

Ground troops of both sides have air support. The deputy maneuver commander, Maj. Gen. W. R. Welbourn, commanding general of the Ninth Air Force, plans "air operations in Exercise Southern Pine will demonstrate once more that tactical air forces and army troops are inseparable partners in any successful land campaign."

Jet planes also are being used. The troops engaged include the 28th Infantry Division, the 43rd Infantry Division, 18th Air Force. The 301st logistical command, a former New York City reserve unit, is supplying both the G. I. grunts and U. S. forces.

The 28th Division is a former Pennsylvania national guard unit stationed at Camp Albany, Ind. The 43rd division, composed mainly of New England soldiers, is based at Camp Pickett, Va. The defense department has announced that both divisions are being sent to Germany this fall.

The 82nd Airborne, which will parachute some troops during the war games is stationed at Fort Bragg.

The director of the whole maneuver is Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, commanding general of the Third Army.

Twenty Persons Die Violently in Arkansas

By The Associated Press

However, the unusual weekend upswing in fatalities failed to materialize. Only two persons were killed in weekend accidents. Both drowned.

In Little Rock, 16-year old fisherman drowned when he decided to wash some sand out of his clothing.

He was Arthur Dumas. Dumas was "throwing" in the Arkansas river with three other youths Saturday night. His companions said they heard him call for help once, but were not able to find him in the darkness.

Officers Seek Seek Attacker of Young Girl

Paragould, Aug. 13 (AP)—Police officials today sought the attacker of a 15-year-old Greene county farm girl.

Sheriff Loy Newberry said no trace of the man described as about 40 years old, had been found. Yvonne Dufree told the sheriff she was attacked on her farm home Saturday night by the man.

She was treated at a hospital here and released after an examining physician said she had not been raped.

Newberry said the girl, who fainted or was knocked unconscious, apparently was thrown into a stock pond on the farm. She was found lying in some weeds on the bank of the pond. Her clothing was wet and marks on the bank indicated that she had crawled out of the water.

The girl said she was attacked as she walked from a barn toward her home.

They are both alderman posts; Ward 3; Jesse Brown and W. B. Mason.

Ward 2; Webb Langster Jr. and Howard Byers.

The preferential primary was held two weeks ago with John L. Wilson, Jr. defeating two other candidates for the office of mayor and C. W. Turpley defeating two opponents for alderman of Ward one.

The polls will open

Sanity Test Ordered for French Slayer

Orleans, France, Aug. 13 — (AP) — French authorities today ordered a sanity test for a man who shot and killed his wife here last night.

Police said the black-haired man, who is being held in Orleans prison, confessed firing five shots into 42-year-old Marie-Chevalier yesterday when he told her he wanted a divorce.

Chevalier, World War II resistance fighter, youth and sports leader, was close to the new premier, Rene Pleven, and seemed to have a bright political future. Pleven was reported deeply shocked by the news of his death.

Chevalier returned to Orleans yesterday after a week in Paris during the final stages of the cabinet crisis. Mrs. Chevalier told investigators that after a furious quarrel about his absence her husband said he wanted a divorce.

Police said she drew a revolver or she had bought a few days earlier and shot him five times. He died instantly, physicians said later.

She then called police headquarters and asked the officer in charge to come to the couple's modest apartment. When Commissioner Antoine Gazon went there, he said she told him in with the joyful announcement "I have just shot my husband."

Continued Rising Prices Are Expected

Washington, Aug. 13 — (AP) — The congressional economic committee has been warned by its staff experts to expect rising prices, inflation and three years of federal deficits.

The staff report was made public today by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), chairman of the senate economic group. He called the committee into closed-door session "to look over the situation as it now exists and see the things that must be done by congress."

Main theme of the report appeared to be arguments in support of:

1. A considerable higher increase in federal taxes than the $7,200,000,000 a year boost voted by the house. Senators have been talking of holding the increase to five or six billions.
2. Tiffer government controls over prices, wages and credit with emphasis upon savings by individuals.

least one attorney for an accused cadet joined in the coach's plea. Leer said that the two screening boards now conducting hearings had completed individual examination of about three-fourths of the cases. The findings were not disclosed.

Each case will be referred to Superintendent Irving, who will send his recommendations to the department of the army. It is possible that the boards or the superintendent may acquit some of the cadets because of extenuating circumstances.

Physical examinations, routine for those leaving the academy, also are being given the involved cadets.

The accused cadets, housed in a special barracks, had granted the full run of the post, were restless and anxious for a decision so they might enter other colleges.

But so far, many of them, particularly football players reported a cool reception among colleges contacted. They said the schools seemed afraid to take them under the present circumstances.

Coch Black said the academy would keep its football commitments on its "big-time schedule" made out three years in advance. Superintendent Irving also said "The Point" would maintain intercollegiate football.

Ridgway Has No Confidence in Parley

Washington, Aug. 13 — (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, United Nations commander in Korea, apparently hasn't much confidence in the ceasefire talks now going on at Kaesong.

But he's banking heavily on the fighting spirit of his men, if the talks fail.

In an interview published today by the magazine U. S. News and World Report, Ridgway said: "The ceaseless flow of falsehoods, perversion and slanted statements which continue to emanate from Communist-controlled public information media, together with the long record of Communist duplicity, deceit and faithlessness in contractual obligations, have dissolved all doubts in the minds of members of this command as to Communist objectives."

"The members of the United Nations command will now judge Communist intentions not by words, but by performance. This performance to date has produced no concrete evidence of honest, peaceful intentions. Our forces know why they fight and their spirits were never higher."

Of American fighting men, Ridgway said: "He is unsurpassed in battle."

The interview between Washington and Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo was conducted by teletype.

Probers to Look Into Boyle Case

Washington, Aug. 13 — (AP) — Senator Hoyer (D-Mo.) said today a senate investigating subcommittee may get a preliminary report this week on an inquiry into charges against William M. Boyle, Jr., the Democratic national chairman.

Hoyer told a reporter that a subcommittee he heads in the senate is looking into allegations that Boyle had attempted to influence government loans and contracts.

Boyle has denied that he had any connection with a $500,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan to the American Lumber Co., a St. Louis printer, from which he said he received legal retainers for a period in 1948 before he became national chairman.

President Truman last week up-hold Boyle, saying the he had complete confidence in the national chairman, and that his confidence was sustained by a White House inquiry.

Hoyer said committee investigators were assigned to "the facts" about charges made by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that Boyle received $1,000 in fees from the printing firm. Boyle said he got $1,250 for general legal services before he quit his law firm a few days when he became executive vice-chairman of the corporation. He receives $30,000 a year as chairman.

Lion Oil Shows Drop in Income

El Dorado, Aug. 13 —(AP)—The Lion Oil company — its operations for the first six months of 1931 curtailed by a strike—showed a drop in income for the period.

A report by board Chairman T. H. Barton and President T. M. Martin yesterday showed Lion's income, after taxes, totaled $5,744,653.12 for the first half of 1931. This compared with an income of $7,147,697.29 for the same period of last year, the report said. Net earnings equaled $2.45 per share on 2,340,846 outstanding shares.

An AFL union at the firm's huge chemical plant struck for 36-days against the company last spring. Members of a CIO union in the plant refused to cross the picket line, and eventually Lion was forced to close the facility. Later the strike was settled. Chemical sales dropped 31 per cent as a result of the strike, Lion officials said.

More Arms Gets Backing of Sen. Taft

Washington, Aug. 13 —(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ioh) said today he will support an increase in the air force but will oppose any equivalent boost in the size of the army and navy.

Taft, who heads the senate committee on military affairs, said in a report he is concerned about reports that military leaders may ask congress for an additional $20,000,000,000 or more appropriations later in the year.

"If that comes along, it will mean that we are headed toward a $100,000,000,000 budget with deficits running about $25,000,000,000 a year and I don't think we can stand such deficits," he said. Taft, long a powerful advocate, said he believes a "reasonable" expansion in the air force in the long run would give the country better defense at cheaper cost than an over-all expansion of the military branches.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said an appropriations subcommittee, of which he is a member, is going to call in the chiefs of staff and find out whether any more fund requests are in sight before it acts on a pending military money bill.

The air force was allowed $10,854,000,000 the army $20,125,000,000 and the navy $15,552,000,000 in a $5600, appropriations measure approved by the house last week.

Ferguson predicted the senate committee won't be able to make "any big reduction" in these amounts because of cost increases. He said as an example, that tanks now cost four times what they did in World War II, only partly because they are much better tanks.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the house armed services committee has come out for a 163 wing air force, compared with the present 87 wings and a goal of 95 groups by next July 1.

In the past, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and other military men have contended that the army and navy must be increased whenever

Many Escape in Wreck of Train

Four Oaks, N. C., Aug. 13 —(AP)—Hundreds of passengers escaped death or serious injury near here yesterday in the wreck of the Atlantic Coast line's streamline passenger train, the East Coast Champion.

According to H. G. Sibley, AL assistant vice president for operations, more than 500 persons were aboard the Miami-New York train which crashed two miles north of here at 1:20 a. m. (EST). The railroad announced no one was killed and no one was seriously injured when the nine mid-e cars of the 18-car train were derailed and three cars plunged down a 20-foot embankment.

The fact that none were killed in the wreck was termed "the most miraculous thing I've ever seen" by Dr. Watson Wharton of nearby Smithfield where nine persons were hospitalized following the wreck.

Six derailed cars held to the right of way, although one turned over. One of the three cars that toppled over the embankment landed on its side, one on its wheels and one on its top. The derailment left the diner crosswise of the double-track line, with one end in the air and the other buried in mud at the bottom of the fill.

A cloudburst hit the area Friday and Sibley said: "Indications are that the cause of the derailment as the fill sloughing off while the train was passing over due to recent heavy rains."

Sibley reported that the wrecked train was traveling 45 to 50 miles an hour at the time of the accident and that the engineer saw nothing wrong with the fill as he approached it. Another passenger train passed safely over the fill an hour ahead of the streamliner, the railroad official added.

The call for help brought twenty-five ambulances and all available doctors to the scene, located about 30 miles southeast to Raleigh, the state capital. But after rescue workers had inspected the damaged cars, many of the ambulances returned empty.

Workers loaded uninjured passengers and those with slight injuries into the five cars that remained on the track behind the diesel locomotive. Others boarded the last four cars of the train and were hauled by another locomotive back to four oaks where doctors treated minor injuries.

Taft said if the air force is to be expanded greatly he doesn't believe the army and navy can keep pace without overloading the country's budget.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My daughter in another state, has an incurably afflicted child. Her husband has a very fine job, and their entire financial situation is much better than ours. Yet she claims that we should help them bear the expense incurred in the care of their sick child. If they really needed the money, or if every cent we had could heal the little one, I would most gladly give it, but our circumstances are extremely modest while she is quite well-off.

I feel that we should save what few dollars we have against a possible illness, or lay-off of my husband. My daughter deeply resents my attitude, and almost completely ignores me—never sending a gift, or card or ever inviting us to her house. Am I right in withholding aid from her?

Answer: Your daughter's char-

New Head of WSB Selected

Washington, Aug. 13 —(AP)—Nathan P. Feinsinger reportedly has been picked to head the wage stabilization board. He would succeed Dr. George W. Taylor when Taylor returns to the University of Pennsylvania.

Feinsinger, 48, is now board vice-chairman. A law professor, he was a member of the World War Two labor board. Fred Bullen, a member of the 18-man wage board, is expected to succeed Feinsinger as vice-chairman.

The attorney general was not a member of the President's cabinet until 1914.

acter judging from the details of your letter which space precludes publishing in its entirety, is essentially a selfish one.

Would She Help You?
If you or her father needed help in time of sickness or unemployment, it is very doubtful if it would be forthcoming from her. Since her own financial position is adequate for the care of her child, there is certainly no necessity for you to give financial assistance.

Better save what you have. Handling it over will earn you no thanks, and assuredly no return in kind should you be in want.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Is it asking too much to want my husband-to-be to know about the little social graces? I am engaged to a good man who has a few rough edges which he apparently has no desire to smooth off, believing a knowledge of such etiquette unnecessary. After several years of subtle suggestions he now helps me off a streetcar, precedes me down a theater aisle or to a dining table when there isn't an attendant present and remembering to come to his feet when a lady first enters a room. I am trying to have him observe other gestures which he considers superfluous. He has been quite good natured about following my suggestions but he does a thing correctly once then lapses into his former forgetfulness. How can I go about asking him to be more observant of such rules?

Answer: You are handling a delicate matter in an extremely tactful and wise manner and I can only suggest that you continue in the same way. It may take a while, but your fiance's desire to please will soon overcome his reluctance to observe the social amenities. You are wise indeed to make the changes you deem necessary in him before marriage, rather than after. This little educational program is much easier now than it would be later.

Rules of etiquette have come in being, after all, simply because they are considerate way of doing things—and usually the simplest. After following these rules for a time, your fiance will see the reason for them, if he is intelligent, and will make them part of his way of living.

Man is a proud creature, and easily hurt. Changes in him must be made carefully, but female wisdom can work wonders. Carry on your program subtly, delicately.

ly, and I think you are assured of ultimate success.

Dear Miss Dix: Last year I was a freshman in a university, and met a very nice young man who is training for the mission field. During the time I spent at school we became very good friends. By the end of the term I couldn't help wanting him to think of our relationship as more than a friendly one. He is so reserved that it is impossible for me to make any advances whatever. How can I make him realize how I feel?

Answer: I think you're rushing things a little, E. L. This young man is embarking on a very serious and vital career and probably isn't thinking of romance at the moment. Since you have known him a year at most, and are still young, you have time to continue the friendship on its present basis and let events take their course. A gentle prod, of course, would not be amiss, but avoid making your feelings too apparent until the young man evinces the same symptoms.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband and I have been married only a few years and have one child. We love each other very much, but my husband wants to belong to civic associations and other clubs and I never could become interested in such things. Consequently he goes out evenings and I stay with the baby, as I don't feel right having someone else sit with her.

If my husband is late getting home I'm worried to death for fear something has happened to him. I have met some of his friends but I can't bear it when they laugh and joke with him. Perhaps I am a little jealous but I want to have him so gay with others and so quiet when with with me.

Answer: You have a very bad case of martyr complex, and unless you take hold of yourself quickly, you'll soon turn into that worse of all possible wives—a nagging shrew! There's no reason in the world why you can't engage a competent sitter to stay with the baby so you can get out with your husband once a week, anyway. I think you enjoy sitting home feeling sorry for yourself.

You Should Join Him
Man is a gregarious animal; he likes people and fun. If simple pleasures are denied him at home he's going to seek them elsewhere. There is certainly nothing wrong in the type of club or organization he frequents; in fact, they are for civic and national betterment and it would do you good to get into such work and find out what goes on in the world.

When your child enters school, affiliate yourself with the parent-teacher organizations. You need them and they need you. If you learn to laugh a little with your husband, you'll soon lose the jealousy over seeing someone else do it.

Dear Miss Dix: My boy friend has a job in which he sees a lot of pretty girls. He is always talking about them and we are constantly fighting about it. We broke up once but were back together again very soon. Should I break up for good or wait to see if we can't get along?

Answer: If your only point of dissection is your boy friend's talk of pretty girls at his job, I wouldn't advise you to break off too hastily. One thing you can be sure of, if he were serious about any of these girls he wouldn't talk lightly about it, so as long as he brings them into discussion occasionally you can be assured that's how he feels. A boy will look at a pretty girl, you know! That's one of the laws of nature—probably only second to the law of self-preservation.

Dear Miss Dix: There is a boy in my classroom whom I like very much and would like to know better. However, he is continually teasing and making fun of me to such extent that I think he detests me. I am considered attractive and am popular with all my classmates except this boy. I have done nothing to give him reason for his behavior.

Answer: You are untutored in the ways of men; Arlene, so I will let you in on a little secret concerning them. Boys seldom go to the trouble of teasing a girl unless they like her very much. Just why they insist on covering up their feelings with this kidding attitude is something even I can't fathom, but they do it.

Your cue is to tease him right back. Don't let him get you rattled and don't let him see you annoyed. Be a good sport about this teasing and you may get your man yet.

Experts Are Beating Gums on Election

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 13 — (AP) — The 1952 presidential election still is more than a year away. But the political experts already are beating their gums about events ahead.

But they're being pretty cagey about it — they have to — because the future is uncertain. As it stands now, the picture can be summed up briefly:

Republicans — general Eisenhower and senator Taft of Ohio are the two most prominently mentioned for the Republican ticket.

Taft is running for as hard as he can. No one can predict at the moment what Eisenhower will do; he may want no part after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bemis

J. H. Bemis, Jim Bemis and Norwood Smith of Magnolia accompanied Mrs. Bobby Duke and son Reed who have been guests in the Bemis home for several weeks to Dallas Thursday. Mrs. Bemis will visit in Ft. Worth and Houston before returning to her home in Odessa, Texas.

Mrs. Mervin Harper has returned to her home on Roanoke, Ala., after having been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Dudley Gordon and family. Mrs. John Sledge remained for an extended visit.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Morrow, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Woodul of Hope, are the guests of their daughter, Mrs. H. B. Lloyd and family in Carboro, North Carolina.

of it; or he may think he's more needed in uniform because of a war or because he thinks his job of rebuilding Europe's defenses isn't finished.

Democrats — President Truman has given no hint of whether he'll seek re-election. Apparently awaiting his decision, most of his fellow Democrats have remained pretty mum on any other choice of their own, if such a

They don't seem to have a wide choice. Given most mention as possible Democratic candidates are these three: Senator Douglas of Illinois; and the Supreme court's Chief Justice Vinson and Associate Justice Douglas.

The Supreme court is not a place for developing political attractiveness and the two justices don't have much popular backing; and as for Senator Douglas—the President is reported to dislike him intensely.

The experts ridicule any suggestion that if Mr. Truman doesn't run he might, if he wanted to, be able to persuade Eisenhower to take the Democratic nomination.

Republican backers of the general claim to know he is a Republican and would run only on the Republican ticket. Only last week the President said he doesn't think the general is a candidate for the Democratic nomination although that doesn't rule out the chance he might try to persuade the general to be the candidate.

If Eisenhower ran as a Democrat a lot of Republicans backing him now as their candidate would be badly embarrassed. They couldn't very well campaign against him later.

From what he's said in the past, Eisenhower doesn't seem very close to Mr. Truman's thinking on domestic affairs. The President has urged much wider economic security for everyone, for instance through a national medical health program.

While he was still active as president of Columbia university Eisenhower once said people looking for security could find it in jail, a remark which brought him criticism, even from his own students at Columbia.

But the general is much closer to the President's views on foreign affairs than he is to Senator Taft's. The general and the President both want strong military alliance with Europe, backed up by a lot of American aid.

Taft, from away back, hasn't been very warm about close tie-ups with Europe as a few items from his record will show:

He was against lend-lease before we got into World War II although he supported it after we did; he was against sending 50 destroyers to Britain even when she was backed to the wall by Nazi Germany; he opposed the legislation which made us an active part of the United Nations; and he opposed the Atlantic pact which put us into the present alliance with Europe as part of which Eisenhower is now in Europe trying to build up Western defenses.

Still, the experts don't seem to think the following could happen even though anything seems possible in politics:

If Mr. Truman doesn't run and Taft clinches the Republican nomination, Eisenhower might accept the Democratic nomination because he differs so much from Taft on foreign affairs.

The hidden protector of your bottle of milk...

Natural gas is the hidden protector of your bottle of milk. Because it is a clean and easily controlled fuel, it is used throughout the milk industry for pasteurization, for processing canned and powdered products, and in the manufacture of milk bottles, cans and containers.

is treated like a baby in your county

Natural gas, so essential to the milk industry, is a pampered passenger on Texas Eastern's pipe lines. Skilled operators watch the flow through meters, supervise its progress on master gauges, scrub it clean and keep it dry with complicated equipment. They "baby" natural gas at the local compressor station so homes and industries can have the gas they need to keep America well and strong.

She called the United Nations declaration of human rights a "step toward this end" and urged the young people to use that declaration as a "cornerstone" on which to build a new faith for the inspiration of mankind.

Akron, O., Aug. 13 — (AP) — Wilbur Shaw, 40, Indianapolis speedway president, was reported in "slightly improved, but serious" condition at city hospital today. He collapsed of a heart attack at the soapbox derby yesterday afternoon.

Shaw ran up the 875-foot sloping race course to get a pre-race parade fair. He collapsed on the grass after making the parade run and waving to the crowd of about 80,000.

His wife, Cathleen, was at his bedside last night, but their son, Warren, 8, remained in the care of family friends.
